Changes in Administration of SVGAT

Just over midway in its one year term the executive of the St. Vincent and the Grenadines Association of Toronto Inc. was removed from office by way of a vote of no confidence.

It was obvious at this point in time that the Executive was not functioning at an acceptable level.

At the monthly meeting in September, Cordel Telfer was named Chair of an Interim Committee. He selected Glendon Carmichael, Dennis Bucchan, Allan Austin and Cornetta Mason to assist him. The committee is charged with conducting the affairs of the Association and will remain in place until a new executive is elected, most likely at the annual general meeting (AGM) which is due in January 2012.

Change in Email Address

Over the years, executive members have drawn to the attention of the membership the difficulty experienced in distributing emails to persons on the contact list. The portal used from the website account severely restricted the number of emails that could be sent at one time which resulted in the process of sending emails taking over two days.

As a result, the Interim Committee has decided to use the email account, vincytoronto@gmail.com as an official email address and account of the Association created for the sole purpose of sending out mass emails. This email account is the property of The St. Vincent and Grenadines Association of Toronto Inc. and its access will be passed on to succeeding executives.

Independence Anniversary Activities

As the Government and nationals of St. Vincent and the Grenadines celebrate the 32nd anniversary of the independence of St. Vincent and the Grenadines, the usual activities took place. The Thanksgiving Church Service was held at the Anglican Church of the Nativity, 10 Sewells Road, Scarborough on Sunday, October 23 with Pastor Maurice Whittle delivering the message. Addresses were made by Canon Donald Butler, Rector of the Church and Mr. Steve O. Phillips, Consul General of St. Vincent and the Grenadines to Toronto.

The annual Independence Dinner and Dance took place on October 29 at Elite Banquet & Convention Centre, 1850 Albion Road, Etobicoke. Bursaries were presented to two young students, Jamaal Exeter and Onika Forde who are currently pursuing post secondary studies. Hon. Mr. Saboto Caesar, Minister of Tourism was the guest speaker and representative of the government of St. Vincent and the Grenadines. Chair of the Interim Committee of the Association, Mr. Cordel Telfer used the occasion to bring attendees up to date on the affairs of the Association. The closing event, a public discussion with the visiting minister took place at Northwood Community Centre, 15 Clubhouse Court, Toronto.

Monthly General Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Vincent and the Grenadines Association of Toronto will take place on Sunday, November 27 from 4:00 p.m. at Northwood Community Centre, 15 Clubhouse Court, Toronto.

This will be the last regular meeting for the year since no meetings are usually held during the month of December.

The Caribbean Court of Justice

The Caribbean Court of Justice (CCJ) is the final court of appeal for member states of the Caribbean Community it fosters the development of an indigenous Caribbean jurisprudence.

In its original jurisdiction it ensures uniform interpretation and application of the Revised Treaty of Chaguaramas, thereby underpinning and advancing the CARICOM Single Market and Economy.

The Caribbean Court of Justice is more than a court of last resort for Member States of the Caribbean Community. In addition to replacing the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the CCJ is vested with an original jurisdiction in respect of the interpretation and application of the Treaty of Chaguaramas, which established the Caribbean Community. In effect, the CCJ exercises both an appellate and an original jurisdiction.

The agreement to establish the CCJ was signed by the CARICOM states of: Antigua & Barbuda; Barbados; Belize; Grenada; Guyana; Jamaica; St. Kitts & Nevis; St. Lucia; Suriname; and Trinidad & Tobago. Two further states, Dominica and St. Vincent & The Grenadines, later signed the agreement, bringing the total number of signatories to 12. The Bahamas and Haiti, though full members of CARICOM, are not yet signatories, and because of its status as a British colony, Montserrat must await Instruments of Entrustment from the UK in order to ratify.

LEADERSHIP FOR SVGAT - 2012 AND BEYOND

As the end of the year approaches it is time for us to reflect on the leadership team that we put in place to do the work required in order for us to have a harmonious, productive and an effective organization. Quite often many of us criticize those who take on the responsibility but we do not come forward to try to make things better. Our organization and community need the support of those who can make them more effective. Please give it your prayerful consideration and assist in building both your organization and community. A new leadership team is to be elected on January 29th, 2012 at the Annual General Meeting.

Great Things Happening In Bequia

Paget Farm Gets Public Library

The NGCDI, formerly the Northern Grenadines Community Development Organization (NGCDO), was formed in 2008 as an umbrella organization for NGOs and CBOs in the Northern Grenadines. The aim of the group is to facilitate access to funding, in addition to providing accountability, good governance and monitoring of the execution of projects.

Some of the projects completed under the auspices of NGCDI include the restoration of the Paget Farm Farine Shed and construction of a well for the farine makers, the Port Elizabeth Water Project which tapped into a well and created a storage reservoir of 20,000 gallons of water to provide the community with potable quality water, and now the Paget Farm Community Library Project.

The library project was undertaken as the group realized that Paget Farm, the largest community on the island of Bequia, was in need of a community library. The group, adopting the theme, "Linking Groups, Empowering People" took a derelict building which formerly served as the first health clinic in the community, and later as a post office to transform it into a community library.

Bequia Gets Desalination Plant

The residents of Bequia who have traditionally relied on rainfall to provide their drinking water, will soon have a new water source with the completion of a desalination plant that will end the water woes of the past.

The Desalination Plant which is a system that converts salt water into fresh water is a pilot project funded by Global Environmental Fund through the World Bank and the Caribbean Climate Change Centre, with the implementation agency being the local Ministry of Health, Wellness and the Environment.

The plant can produce 34,560 gallons of fresh water in a 24-hour period. The Desalination Plant is fully operational. However, Deputy Director of Grenadines Affairs Herman Belmar said they are now working on a second part of the project, which will see the storage of the water and subsequent distribution to the residents. Belmar said a 20,000-gallon storage tank, already on its way from Singapore will be placed at the top of Paget Farm in an area known as Derrick Hill.

Once a concrete structure is built to store the tank, Belmar said this will clear the way for the Government and the Central Water and Sewerage Authority to commence the final phase of the piping to the communities. Belmar estimates that the process will be completed no later than December 31 and it will be very unlikely that they will have to import water from mainland St. Vincent after that time.

Tribute To Ruby Olivia Phillips, née Samuel

June 13, 1936, Fountain, St. Vincent and the Grenadines -
October 15, 2011, Toronto, Canada

The fourth child of Jonathan and Lessaline Samuel's 10 children who survived past infancy, Ruby Phillips immigrated to Toronto from St. Vincent in early 1960 to meet her sisters Minerva and Elsa who were already here. She started life in her new country as domestic worker, as did most of the young women who immigrated to Canada from the Caribbean at the time.

On November 24, 1962 she married Hubert Phillips and together they raised five children.

After completing her Canadian high school equivalency at night school in 1964, she worked in various fields including banking for 13 years, before pursuing her chosen profession as a hairdresser. She was an excellent student at Marvel Beauty Schools in Toronto, graduating with a diploma as well as a Certificate of Merit in 1978. Her business was established first in the basement of the family home before opening the first Ruby's Beauty Salon at York Woods Plaza in North Toronto in 1977, moving to the intersection of Keele & Finch in 1990, where it continues to today.

Not content to rest on her laurels, Ruby continually strove to keep herself updated on the latest in hairdressing by attending seminars and training sessions throughout her career. They included the Thomas Hayden Advanced Training in November 1983 and at the Dudley Products Company in Greensboro, North Carolina (USA) in 1988, among others.

Miss Ruby, as she is known by her clients and friends, trained and mentored many hairdressers at her salon, including 3 of her children and one grand-daughter who are now accomplished hair stylists. Of the many certificates of appreciation and acknowledgement that she received over the years, she was very proud of the ones from the Learning for Life Co-op Education Programme from several Boards of Education around Toronto (City of York, North York and Etobicoke). Her participation in these programs was her way of giving back to the community by passing on her passion for hairdressing to the young students. In addition, various companies, such as D-orum Hair Products (1988) and Lady Velvet (1996) awarded her with certificates of appreciation for outstanding and dedicated service.

She also supported others in their businesses by buying products from them, unable to resist helping a fellow Vincentian or West Indian to succeed.

A proud Vincentian, and a member of the St. Vincent and the Grenadines Association, she actively promoted its functions at Ruby's Beauty Salon. She even sponsored one of the buses to the annual picnic at Thousand Islands Park for several years. In 1993 the Association presented her with the "Mother of the Year" award in appreciation for her outstanding contribution to the community and in 2005, she was honoured at the Association's Independence Dinner and made an Honorary Life Member.

Ruby sponsored many people to Canada from St. Vincent, as well as from other Caribbean islands. Her generosity knew no bounds, never turning anyone away who may need her help. She opened her home to those who needed a place to stay, and fed countless others. As she said herself, "I love helping people".

Ruby is survived by her husband, Hubert; her 5 children: Junior, Fitz Allen, Leroy, Irvin and Donna; 22 grandchildren and 7 great grand-children; sisters: Doris Timm, Elsa Sutton and Ancilla Cadougan and brothers: Stanley, Charles, Errol and Claudius; brothers-in-law James Timm and Christopher Cadougan and sister-in-law Gloria Samuel; many nieces, nephews, friends, and clients. She was predeceased by her parents Jonathan and Lessaline Samuel and sisters Christobel Worrell and Minerva John.

IMMIGRATION MATTERS

CARIBBEAN REFUGEE CLAIMANTS

Contributed by: Sandra Sutherland, CCIC

It appears that more and more people arrive in Canada bearing a passport from St. Vincent and the Grenadines or from St. Lucia and remain here illegally. Some eventually make a claim for refugee protection. There are fervent grumblings that focus on the issue that people from the Caribbean should not apply for refugee status because the Caribbean countries are not refugee producing countries. Because making a claim allows claimants to apply for certain benefits, some claimants pursue this option of acquiring status for these privileges. While I agree that the refugee system should not be exploited in this regard, if a person has a genuine claim it may be pursued under the grounds that the claimant deems to meet the definition of a Convention Refugee or a Person in Need of Protection.

The Refugee Protection Division of the Immigration and Refugee Board state the criteria for in-Canada claimants as “persons who are outside the country of their nationality and have a well-founded fear of being persecuted for reasons of: race, religion, nationality, political opinion, or membership of a particular social group.” or “persons whose removal to their country of origin would subject them personally to: a danger of torture, a risk to their life, or a risk of cruel and unusual treatment or punishment.” There are genuine cases whereby a person from the Caribbean may make a refugee claim.

Over the years I have represented clients from the Caribbean, as well as other countries, with respects to their claim for refugee protection. Many cases have been successful while others fail. One particular client, Lucy (not her real name), made a claim because she feared returning to her homeland. Lucy was constantly abused by her husband. She testified at the hearing that because it was “normal” in the Caribbean for husbands to beat their wives, she had to endure it and was unable to receive protection from the authorities. She would leave her husband only to have him find her and bring her back home and then continue with the beatings, most times worse than before. She received no help from the police and was able to demonstrate that protection from the police was not forthcoming, and will not be forthcoming upon her return to her country. Her claim was successful.

Most successful cases for males were based on the grounds of homosexuality. In general, the Caribbean is known to be homophobic. Homosexuality is not condoned in the Caribbean and, in some countries; persons can be severely brutalized and/or even jailed for not being heterosexual. Take the case of Frank (not his real name). While engaging in sexual relations with another male, Frank was discovered by a neighbour. Word spread, as it usually does in the Caribbean, like wildfire. Soon enough many communities on the island became aware of Frank's sexuality and he was constantly assaulted, shunned and discriminated against. The consequences of this persecution caused Frank to lose his job, family and friends. He became a recluse and stayed indoors fearing to venture out lest he succumb to severe beatings or get killed. He came to Canada and made a refugee claim. As his representative I provided solid documentary evidence and presented supporting letters from two close family members who cared enough about him. His testimony at the hearing was credible and his claim was successful.

Claimants are required to sign and adhere to a Departure Order promising to leave Canada if their claim is refused, withdrawn or abandoned. Prospective claimants should acknowledge that their claim may not be successful and to take heed of the negative consequences bogus claims may have on them. They should also duly assess the impact it may have on other genuine claims from their country as well as the effects that it may have in contributing to the volume of claims from their country, if any.

THE NINE MORNINGS FESTIVAL IN SVG

Submitted by E. Bernard John

Nationals of St. Vincent and the Grenadines, who live in the Diaspora, have a special incentive to return home annually for the Christmas season, because of the special activities that take place at that time...

The Nine Mornings Festival is unique to St. Vincent and the Grenadines and is a tradition which has grown by leaps and bounds, particularly over the last twelve (12) or so years.

There are several theories seeking to locate the origins of 'Nine Mornings', the most plausible of which relates it to the 'Novena' of the Catholic Church in the 1920's. It is believed that during these early morning Church services which many attended, others engaged in other activities such as window shopping and sea bathing – activities which the church goers would have joined at the end of the Church services. This, it is widely believed to be the genesis of 'Nine Mornings'. Another school of thought is that it originated during the period of slavery.

Whatever the origin, participation over the decades has been spontaneous; and activities have varied over time: from the sea bathing and window shopping mentioned earlier, to street dancing to the music of goat skin drums and wooden flutes, matinee shows, public fetes, bicycle riding, Christmas carolling, street vending and steel band music.

Despite the diversity of activities that evolved from time to time, there were several years of dormancy when Vincentians seemed to have lost the enthusiasm to participate. During the 1990's, interest waned to the extent that there was very little happening on the streets in terms of attractions and the number of persons leaving their homes. This triggered the coming together in 1999, of a group of four (4) patriotic Vincentians who sought to revive 'Nine Mornings'.

This national committee, comprising Sebastian 'Bassy' Alexander, Michael Peters, Lennox Bowman and Joel Providence, put together a programme of activities to take the form of a street concert in the capital, Kingstown. Their efforts have resulted in the spread of similar street concerts in one dozen or so communities across the country, from the villages of North Leeward and Fancy in the north, to the Grenadine island of Bequia in the South. So residents and visitors alike have a wide choice as to what community to which they wish to journey for this unique experience, which would normally begin at around 4.00 in the morning.

Activities and competitions today include bois-bois dancing, hula-hoop, road races, egg & spoon races, keep fit exercises and a host of other attractions that the various community organising committees bring to the fore. Musically, in recent years, outstanding artistes such as Carlton 'CP' Hall and the Bowman brothers have been creating and performing Christmas/Nine Mornings music specifically for the festival. A community lighting competition, preparation of which also knits each community together, also adds to the euphoria. The national committee must be highly commended for their efforts.

All these activities are preceded by a formal launch of the festival, which, this year, will be held on Sunday, December 4th. It will take the form of a candle light march and concert at Heritage Square, which will involve the musical bands of the Police Force and Cadet Corp, various cultural groups, appropriately costumed characters and the like. And it begins with an act of worship.

It should be noted that in recent years, statistics reveal that our crime rate has been at its lowest in the month of May (when the Gospel Festival is held) and December (Christmas/Nine Mornings) and this may very well be the result of the community spirit engendered at these times.

When walking through the throngs of people on the streets of Kingstown in December, it is now not uncommon to hear the accents of Barbadians, Grenadians, St. Lucians and others, as our neighbours and those who live further afield recognise more and more, what St. Vincent and the Grenadines has to offer at this time of year.

It is a true family-oriented affair...

The Adopt-A-Child Program

As part of its outreach and assistance to the people of our homeland, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, the Association decided to provide assistance to children in the primary school system in order to ensure that they receive the basic foundation that would lead the way to their future development.

The program began in 2008 with the adoption of two students whose schools were chosen at random here in Toronto and then the community including the school principal in St. Vincent and the Grenadines selecting the child. The sponsorship is for a five year period during which time each student will receive the equivalent of Cdn$4,200.00. A set of trustees in SVG monitor the student's performance and supervise the distribution of the funds on a monthly basis.

Sponsors are required to assist other children. Sponsorship can be done in the full amount or combined with others. If you would like to assist a child in St. Vincent and the Grenadines please contact a member of the executive of the Association or send an email to svgatoronto@vincytoronto.com.
